Wishing to take on an additional job (Adhoc hours around 16-18 a month) to support my income. Fitting around and not to affect my current position. It is a support worker / carer role. It would working with a child with complex needs to facilitate access to the community, support personal care, administer feed via peg & support play activities at home.	26/06/2020	Ongoing	Approached / emailed line manager to see if there would be a conflict of interest. Stuart	David	Substance Use lead, 56 Dean Street sexual health & HIV. Allied healthcare professional/drugs counsellor	Financial interests and non-financial professional interests. I speak at conferences, provide trainings, lend expertise and provide drugs-counselling (gratis) to individuals online	01/01/2014	Ongoing	Any paid speaking/training events that are offered to me via NHS Trust channels are free, or the fee is donated to the Trust charity (CW+); any tax liabilities relating to the donation are properly discharged and accounted for. My organisation and management (and in most cases the Communications department) are aware of these, Any other speaking training events where I am approached privately via my reputation as an expert, are all done in my personal time, with strict boundaries around my NHS Trust role, which is always prioritised and protected from any blurred lines. I do not have a private practice, but since COVID began March 2020 I do online drugs counselling via social networks and networks with international charities. I do this charity work for free -never accepting donations or payment or gifts. I never accept payment for these and I am always precise in my boundaries between personal charity work and my NHS Trust responsibilities, Charity work is done in my own personal time, and priority would always be given to my NHS Trust responsibilities. The patients I support within my NHS role should never be confused by my charity work, or have their care compromised by my private charity work
